Art Unit: 2622

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 6/25/09 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 24, 26-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Umezawa et al (US5,491,507).

With regard to claim 24, Uezawa et al discloses in Figs. 1 and 7, a video telephone camera that comprises the method of operating a camera, the method comprising a) moving a display housing containing a display from a first position in which the display is located in front of the camera (display panel 11 is positioned in body 2 of the video camera; where body 2 includes part 21a that is used to cover camera lens portion 24 in which the camera is not operated as shown in Fig. 1, col. 6, line 11 and col. 10, lines 13-51) and covers a lens of the camera to a second position horizontally adjacent the first position so that the lens of the camera is uncovered and the display is located along side the camera (part 21 a of body 2 is located in a second position; where part 21a is uncovered lens portion 24 rotated within a range of 240 degrees so that the camera can be operated, col.10, lines 32-52); and b) uncovering the display when moving the display housing to the second position so that the lens of the camera faces forward and the display faces rearward (lens portion 24 can be rotated to within a range of 240 degrees in forward position so that a user can take a picture of an object in front of the video camera and in the position, the panel 11 faces rearward).

With regard to claim 26, Uezawa et al discloses in Figs. 1 and 7, a video telephone camera that comprises the method of operationally activating the lens and the display when the display housing is positioned in the second position (when the lens portion 24 faces forward or rearward, the video camera and display 11 activated so as to take pictures of an object or a user as shown in Figs. 1 and 7).

With regard to claim 27, Uezawa et al discloses in Figs. 1 and 7, a video telephone camera that comprises sliding the display housing from the first position to the second position (part 21a of body 2 can be rotated to a first and second positions.

With regard to claim 28, Uezawa et al discloses in Figs. 1 and 7, a video telephone camera that comprises moving the display housing further comprises, rotating the display housing from the first position to the second position (display panel 11 can be rotated with respect to the lens portion 24 within a range of 240 degrees).

With regard to claim 29, Uezawa et al discloses in Figs. 1 and 7, a video telephone camera that comprises the protecting the display from weather with a weather shield when the display housing is in the second position (when part 21 is located in front of lens portion 24, the lens portion can be protected from weather).

3. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
